

Your Wedding At

HEADFORT

ARMS HOTEL

Your Happily Ever After Starts Here

The Headfort was once the townhouse of the Marquis of Headfort dating back to the mid-1700s. To this day it still retains this sense of regal charm with a modern feel. The Duff Family have been at the helm for over half a century and The Headfort is known for its heartfelt hospitality. Each and every couple is assured of getting our undivided attention, as 'one family looks after another'.

The Headfort celebrates being the only Meath entry in the 'Top 100 Places to Stay in Ireland' by the coveted Mc Kenna Guides, who write;

'Family hotels, which were once the backbone of Irish hospitality, are scarce things today, and the hotel world has become one of the sharpest iterations of the corporate world. But if you want to see - and feel - exactly what an Irish family-run hotel is like then take the short journey from Dublin to Kells and park up at the Headfort Arms Hotel, a grand building in this pretty town. 'The staff are spontaneous, the welcome is real, the comfort is understated and the cooking is soulful. The people working here care about your welfare and care that you are having the best time they can create for you'

So book your showaround and let The Headfort be the beginning of your happily ever after. We look forward to meeting you in person and planning the 'day of your life'
